

JohnEyo is a young teenage yo-yo performer. He has been on The Martha Stewart and Tony Danza Shows and has been spotlighted by WCCO, KSTP and Fox 9, local TV stations. He performs and competes all over the country and is the 2005 World Offstring Champion. He is sponsored by YoYo Jam, is on their National Team and designed "The Black Knight", and the soon to be release, "Equinox" his signature yo-yo's from them.

John entertains audiences young and old with the yo-yo flying into incredible string tricks that seem to slip out of knots as if by magic. What seems hard to do with one yo-yo gets even harder when he pulls out the second yo-yo for some 2 handed play. When he starts with the Offstring, the jaws start dropping. He makes unbelievable catches and throws, just when you think he's going to miss, it lands on back on his string.

His shows are very flexible, fun, and motivational. They can be tailored to whatever the need is. He also has a yo-yo available to sell after his shows if wanted. It's a $11.00 yo-yo called "The Jammin John" by YoYo Jam. His rates are reasonable and flexible as to the type and length of show.

Please contact us for more information. All proceeds also go to his college fund.

Quotes

"John has been a favorite on Children's Hospitals and Clinics close circuit TV program, the Kids Clubhouse. He knows just how to engage an audience with his unique yo-yo demonstration/program. His outstanding yo-yo tricks, his choice of back round music, and his humble (all-be-it – FUN,) personality, make him a hit with people of all ages".

"John really got our United Way campaign energized and motivated people to give! Our staff was amazed at John's talents and impressed by his poise and the way he customized his performance to incorporate the need to support the United Way. Marcus Robinson and Darren Sharper couldn't get over John's skill and it was entertaining watching them try to explain what John could do with a yo-yo to the other players in the locker room-because quite frankly-you can't describe it. You've got to see John in person."
